Announcements

The Dialogues on Historical Justice and Memory Network announces its 2015 Conference:

The Politics of Memory: Victimization, Violence and Contested Narratives of the Past
Columbia University, New York City
December 3-5, 2015

The 2015 conference aims to explore issues relating to memory, victimhood and violence. Possible themes include the changing nature and identity of victims and the theme of contested victimization, with a particular interest in topics that explore the anniversaries of historical violence and the way such events are remembered. Abstract submission deadline is September 15, 2015. For the full call for papers and instruction on how to apply, click here, or go to our website: <http://www.humanrightscolumbia.org/?q=ahda/conference>.

Other

Archive on the Legacy of Conflict in South Asia

The Institute for the Study of Human Rights is pleased to announce the development of the Archive on the Legacy of Conflict in South Asia. In partnership with Columbia University Libraries/Information Services (CUL/IS)'s Center for Human Rights Documentation & Research (CHRDR) and the Armed Conflict Resolution and People's Rights Project (ACRes), ISHR will aid in the preservation of unique historical documentation of gross human rights violations and conflict in South Asia. This pilot project aims to locate materials that are not currently being collected and preserved by libraries and archives or are at risk of disappearing.
