Our newsletter focuses on issues relating to historical dialogue, historical and transitional justice, and public and social memory. More details about items in our newsletter (and more!) can be found on our website.

Both our website and newsletter provide information and resources to encourage innovative interdisciplinary, transnational and comparative research. They are housed at the Institute for the Study of Human Rights at Columbia University, New York City.
This story https://bit.ly/3LHYq2d, provides context for the ongoing work of the California Reparations Task Force (written by @dustingardiner). If you have a story or a blogpost that you want to highlight in our newsletter, e-mail dialogues@columbia.edu to be considered.

SCHOLARSHIP

Select book reviews, books for review and the latest contribution to our working paper series.

MORE ON SCHOLARSHIP
Read Igor Stipić's review of Civil Obedience: Complicity and Compacency in Chile Since Pinochet, in which author Michael Lazzara argues that a radical approach towards human rights in times of post-dictatorship trauma must understand present injustice as continuous with past violence.

Interested in reviewing a book? Below are a list of books currently available for review. Interested in proposing a book for review? E-mail us at dialogues@columbia.edu!

RESOURCES

Online resources related to historical dialogue, historical and transitional justice, and public and social memory that may be of particular interest during this period of institutional closures and social distancing.

New Resources:
• NEW! Let’s Talk Reparations is a new podcast from the African American Redress Network in collaboration with Columbia’s Institute for the Study of Human Rights. This episode spotlights Brown Grove, a historic African American community in Virginia. Faced with decades of environmental racism—the community is organizing to halt construction of a Wegmans distribution center.

• NEW! Roma Peoples Project (RPP)

• NEW! #DHJewish – Jewish Studies and Digital Humanities: dhjewish.org
